KELVIN GIORMANI

The design of Model CAPRA (no. 0434) was inspired by one of the 12 animals of the Chinese zodiac, which is GOAT. For the most part of 2015, it's the year of GOAT according to the ancient Chinese calendar. Thanks to the folding effect (a fashionable leathercrafting feature), the arms of Model CAPRA resemble the natural beauty of goat horns.

AFFILATO 0435

The stunning arm feature of Model AFFILATO brings the challenge of SHARP EDGE & CORNER design to both the sofa maker and consumers. This design feature is highly difficult to realize on soft upholstery products like genuine leather sofas.

Thanks to the 5mm thick and high density PU material which is placed in between the leather and the padding materials of the sofa arms, its firm and highly elastic nature supports and retains the SHARP EDGE & CORNER design feature.

Consumers who appreciate "sharp edges and corners" on their sofas, like Model AFFILATO, at home, must be true believers of differentiated designs and the beauty of uniqueness.

The armchair (no. 1DAC) of Model AFFILATO has a narrower arm width than that of the sofa, which is 10cm less in width. This particular design arrangement achieves a better scale and the space efficiency for the armchair.

The exterior arm base line of Model AFFILATO is not aligned in a linear way. It appears to have a sharp turning angle in the middle of the base line. On one hand, this "sharp" turning angle feature at this part corresponds to the sharp corner feature of the sofa arm top; at the same time, the seat frame front of Model AFFILATO can achieve a slimmer and clean contemporary look.

Just in case consumers prefer to add headrests, they are available with Model SPAZIOSA. The difference is that the model number will have a "B" at the end.

For those who don't require a headrest, the model numbers of Model SPAZIOSA will have an "A" at the end.

Optional stool (no. ST2) is available with the matching design of the sofa seat frame front.

There are 3 design variations on Model SPAZIOSA, and they are all at the detachable back cushions of the model. BORDO V M0433A

The design theme of Model BORDO is the extremely-thin and sharply-defined "borders" at the sofa arms, the seat frame front and the back frame top, which are rarely found in contemporary sofa designs. This design theme even extends to the matching sofa leg design.

There are 2 options of sofa legs for Model BORDO. With the prefix of "M" in front of the model number, the metal leg features 2 thin sheets of stainless steel as side panels with a genuine leather-wrap wooden block as the core.

For the metal leg, the leather type and color of the core can be customized with over 100 choices from KELVIN GIORMANI's leather collection.

With the prefix of "H" in front of the model number, the wooden leg features 2 thin sheets of leather-wrap wooden pieces as side panels with a solid wood core. 6 different wood colors are available for customization. For the genuine leather-wrap side panels, there are over 100 choices from KELVIN GIORMANI's leather collection.

There are 3 variations within Model BORDO that have different features. The differentiated features are all presented between the "borders." For BORDO V (no. 0433A), the highlighted feature is the fashionable leathercrafting feature named folding effect.

If consumers prefer the minimalistic design concept, Model BORDO I (no. 0431A) will be the best choice.

BORDO V M0433A

BORDO I H0431A

BORDO III M0432A

The highlighted feature of Model BORDO III (no. 0432A) is another fashionable leathercrafting effect named small diamond-shape pattern stitching.

Optional stool (no. ST2) is available with the matching design of the sofa seat frame front.

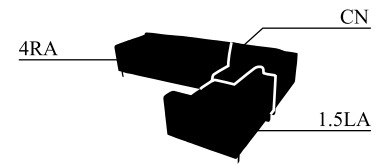

Folding effect is a leathercrafting effect that is popularly featured in fashion leather goods like, clothings, shoes and handbags. It's rarely seen as a design feature for sofas partially because the folding effect is technically difficult to control in a uniform appearance when the application surface is relatively wide or long.

KELVIN GIORMANI is boldly trying to incorporate folding effect into genuine leather sofa design because we appreciate the "non-uniform" appearance that results from the natural variation of elasticity at different portions of a genuine cow hide.

BORDO is a sofa model that not only looks good from the front view; it also looks nice from the top.

Leather: 2272 (subject to availability)

BORDO III M0432A

Diamond-pattern stitching is also a leathercrafting effect that is popularly featured in fashion leather goods like, clothings, shoes and handbags. It has been one of the design highlights of KELVIN GIORMANI sofas since 2008.

The armchair (no. 1DAC) of Model BOROD features a narrower arm width (4cm less wide than that of a sofa arm). It becomes so space efficient that it can be a good choice as a club chair.

ABBRACCIO I 0422

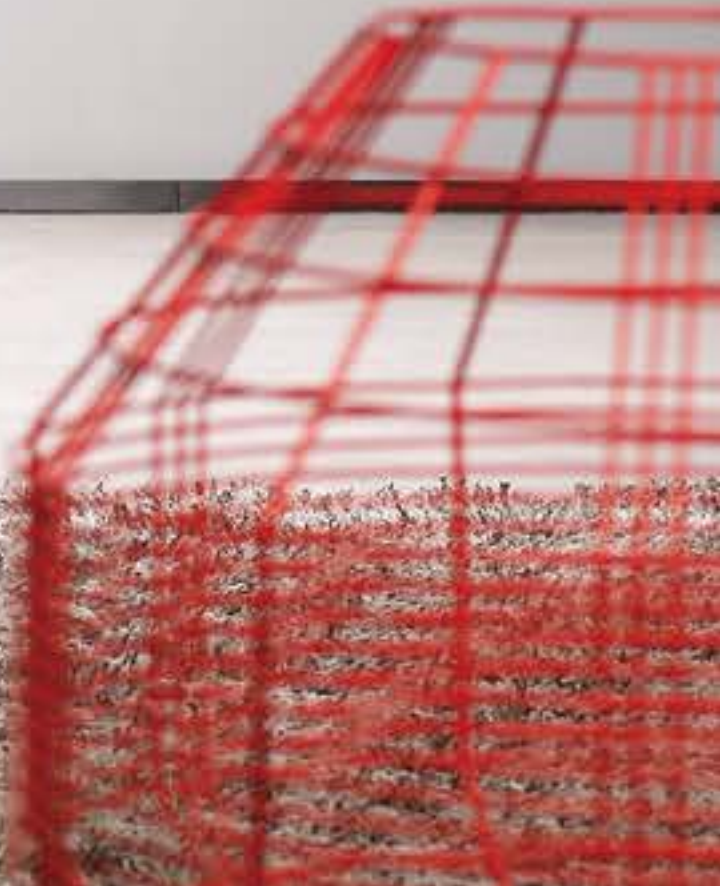

The design theme of Model ABBRACCIO is the curved double-stitching feature at the seat front and arm front. It's an unconventional way to stitch between genuine leather pieces because the technique requires high-level workmanship. Another design detail is the placement of piping-cords at the flat leather surface to highlight the beauty of curve lines on sofa frames. This is also an unusual way to apply leather piping-cords when they are mostly found at the edges of sofa frames or cushions.

Optional headrest is available for Model ABBRACCIO.

74 SPIRALE II 0437

For Model SPIRALE II (no. 0437), the fashionable leathercrafting feature, named curved-strip pattern sewing with alternative perforation, is placed at the back cushions. This curved-shape feature well corresponds to the "spiral" design concept of Model SPIRALE.

The 10mm solid stainless steel legs which are boldly engineered to connect to the sofa arm bases (instead of the sofa seat bases as a usual way). That's also a way to maximize the visibility of the sofa leg design.

Model SPIRALE features head mechanisms which are supplied by Hettich International from Germany. This feature enhances the support at the neck while seating.

To match the "spiral" inspired tall stainless steel legs, a shorter version of the leg (with the matching "spiral" design) is placed at the sofa seat base to enhance the structure of the sofa sets.

The aesthetics of the "spiral" inspired stainless steel legs is presented 360 degrees around Model SPIRALE.

The signature shape of the car > < turns out to be the key design feature of Model LUSSO.

With the design inspiration from a luxury car, Model LUSSO II (no. 0439) also features the fashionable leathercrafting effect named small diamond-pattern stitching at the seat cushion front.
