TABLE TOP

WOOD VENEER

Only the high-quality trunks and therefore the smallest part of the total felling can be used for the furniture construction. That applies to the use of the trunk for solid wood production, too. The choice of wood is done selectively according to the requests typical for furniture.

In contrast to solid wood veneered surfaces are less sensitive to variabilities of temperature and dampness. Veneered surfaces are protected. This makes the care especially easy and exerts the beauty of the material.

The veneered table top is optionally available in:

- Wild oak natural (UV laminated oil effect): Visual characteristics of wild oak are increased arising branches, small cracks, whirls or face sides. The agility of the wood is also formed by the natural play of colours.

- Wild walnut (UV laminated with oil effect): With wild walnut the wide colour spectrum is varying from grey-brown to red-brown painting to the point of nearly black inlets. Also a share of light sap wood is possible. Limb and growth marks as well as different intense wood structures are characterizing the nativeness of the walnut.

BASE FRAME

The metal base frame is supplied in structural black mat.

CARE INSTRUCTIONS

Never use abrasives, polishes or cleaning agents for care respectively for cleaning. Also do not apply acid or base containing chemicals. Just wipe off damply with a soft clean cloth and dry afterwards.
